For the 4th year in a row, Unitex partnered with local tri-state area hospitals to spread holiday cheer to sick children and their families. What started out as a small event in northern New Jersey, has now expanded to hospitals in Queens and South Jersey. The celebrations are part of the Unitex Cares program that focuses on giving back to local communities across New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. “Seeing the joy the events have brought to so many children and their families, spurred our team to reach out to some of our other hospital partners, said David Potack, President of Unitex. “Years ago, we started out visiting children at the Joseph M. Sanzari Children’s Hospital at Hackensack Meridian Health and St. Joseph’s Children’s Hospital, both in New Jersey and since then have added St. Mary’s Hospital for Children in Bayside last year, and Virtua Voorhees Hospital this year.”

The team at Unitex brought crafting supplies and presents for each child. The children were happy to take part in festive activities that helped bring holiday cheer to everyone that day.

“The holiday season is a special time of year, especially when St. Mary’s staff and kids get to spend it with loyal volunteers and supporters like Unitex,” said Victoria Falcone, Manager of Strategic Partnerships at St. Mary’s Hospital for Children. “It is an honor and pleasure to have them bring holiday smiles and cheer to St. Mary’s Kids and we are lucky to have them as a partner.”
